

Gausius: Selected Scholarship on Teaching and Learning at Illinois State University, 2004-2009.

The office of the Cross Endowed Chair in the Scholarship of Teaching and Learning (SoTL) at Illinois State University (ISU) is currently producing a publication of brief reflective scholarly essays and research notes of SoTL work about ISU students that has been conducted in the last six years. At ISU, we define SoTL as the “systematic reflection/study on teaching and learning made public.” Dr. K. Patricia Cross, Emeritus, University of California-Berkeley) is writing an Introduction to the publication. An editorial board has been established and papers are being peer reviewed by one internal and one external reviewer. We expect to publish about 12-15 papers from instructors in a wide range of disciplines. We are also involving Graphic Design students and English students in the design, editing, and production of the publication. We will produce the publication both in hard copy form (a limited number for contributors, reviewers, Chairs/Directors, ISU administrators, Carnegie Foundation staff, Dr. Cross, and others) as well as post it on our ISU SoTL web site in the spring semester.
